PROFILE

Doug Legg has a unique background, with a combination of experiences in technology sales and commercial real estate. Doug focuses primarily on high-growth technology companies where he helps them understand the terms of the deal and negotiates the lease on their behalf.

Prior to joining Wm. Leonard & Co. in 1999, Doug held various positions in the software industry where he sold custom software development services for Daugherty Systems, a consulting firm that provides complete project services. His efforts were centered on developing new relationships with companies that could benefit from the combination of software development, mentoring, and training services.

During his past technology experiences, Doug served as southeast regional sales representative for Grumman System Support Corporation (GSSC), a division of Northrop Grumman. As a national systems integrator, GSSC provided a great opportunity to gain valuable knowledge in technology infrastructures and internet-related technologies. His technology experience is critical in understanding the challenges and needs of high tech companies in today's demanding marketplace.
